

ADELE MARIE SCHNEIDEREIT
INSPIRE THE WORLD FOUNDATION

Adele Schneidereit hopes to be the first disabled person to circumnavigate the globe.

Born with the developmental disability, Cerebral Palsy, on December 15, 1963, Adele attended and graduated from “mainstream” public schools in California at a time when many states refused to allow children with Cerebral Palsy into the public school system.

Adele’s interest in aviation came early. At age 4, she started flying with her father and grandfather, both pilots. She went on to earn an Engineering / Computer Science degree from California Polytechnic State University in 1988.

After graduation, Adele married Jeff Schneidereit, an instrument rated pilot, and subsequently launched a career as a software designer at American Management Systems located in Silicon Valley then went to work Kaiser Permanente.

Jeff and Adele had children in 1990 and 1994, James and Stephanie respectively, both endeavor to become pilots.

In the early 1990’s, Adele helped Jeff found their architectural firm, Jeff Schneidereit Architects (JSA), which still thrives today on the Central Coast.

With the stated goal of flying around the world to raise awareness and money for research for Cerebral Palsy, Adele launched her career in aviation and filmmaking in 2007. Her foundation, Inspire The World Foundation, is an affiliate of the United Cerebral Palsy of San Luis Obispo.

Adele and Jeff Schneidereit founded Longview Media Creations, Inc., a company dedicating to bringing the cause of Cerebral Palsy to the world through high definition film. Longview Media works closely with Aspect Studios to create Hemispheres, a documentary about Cerebral Palsy and Adele’s upcoming global flight to raise money for medical research and awareness for the disability.

Adele works toward the goal of flying around the world for Cerebral Palsy while documenting the event. She is privileged to work with luminaries in the entertainment industry such as Hallmark Channel founder and producer Loreen Arbus, academy award winner Chris Cooper, the first television actress with a disability, Geri Jewell, actresses Marianne Leone and Cheryl Hines, and singer Micky Dolenz.

On January 3, 2008, Adele completed a transcontinental flight from the California Coast to the Florida Coast back to California in preparation for upcoming the around-the-world-flight.
